SHOCKING DEPRAVITY. Unnatural Mother

(From the Charleston (Illinois) Courier. young woman about nineteen years of age, came | record, whether of fact or fiction. to this city and obtained employment as a house girl. She worked at different places, until about at an another place, but was driven by an evil to blame because the nation will sing it. genius of her own sex, who appeared to take pleasure in pursuing her, and who is said to be no better than herself, from place to place, until Saturday morning, when she wandered off with her child to a slough of water by the side of the Galen's Head Dispensary railroad track, about three quarters of a mile east of town. Here, after tying a cord around the child's neck, she threw it into the slough and started off, she says, with the intention of destroying herself.

Before proceeding far, however, her heart failed her, and she returned to her offspring. She | And all Affections of the Urinary and Ger went back and forth three different times. The last time she took the child out of the mud and water, and after cleaning the mud out of its mouth, attempted to nurse it, but it refused to nurse, and becoming so still and quiet, that she ON VENEREAL DISEASES, at last thought it was dood and laid it that she at last thought it was dead, and laid it out on the edge of the slough in which she had previously Ruptures, Piles, Pistula, Urinary thrown it, and she wandered off, homeless, pen-Kidneys, Bladder, Prostrate Gland. niless, and friendless, she knew not where

This was about 10 o'clock in the forenoon of Saturday. At about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, of the same day, Mr. Thomas Cheeseman hap pened to be passing along by the slough coming taining a Treatise on Self Abuse, to town, when his attention was directed by hear- Spermatorrhea, Sexual and Nering a child cry. He dismounted his horse and vousDebility, Barrenness and Imnstituted a search, and at last succeeded in finding the child, surrounded by the slough, in the midst of weeds and briars, where the unnatural mother had left it, covered all over with mud. Mr. C. picked it up and took it to the house of Mr. Goodman, when Mrs. G. washed it, and took care of it, until Mr. Checseman could come to town and make some provision for it.

Mr. Cheeseman returned home that night, and was told that a young woman had stopped there that evening hunting her friends, and had retired to an adjoining room. He related the circumstances of finding the child to his family, not mistrusting that his guest had anything to do with it, until next morning, when a messenger was sent in to summon the young woman to breakfast. She remarked that she was too ill to rise, and that the child Mr. C. had found the evening previous was hers.

The unhappy mother remained at Mr. Cheeseman's until Monday, when Constable Gilman went out and arrested her, and brought her to town in a carriage, but she being too ill to stand her trial, he took her to his house for safe keep ing. In the meantime, her child was taken by the Overseer of the Poor to Mrs. Donaldson, in whose care it remained until Monday morning, ard, who still has it.

The mother states that her step mother resides near Neoga, Effingham county, and that her father is in the army. She also had a brother, in the army, who went from Mattoon, where his wife now resides. She also states that she was seduced by Tower Thomason, a married man, about thirty six years of age, who resides about three miles west of Neoga, and that he is the father of the child, which, so far, has undergone as many privations, and, perhaps, more hardships, than did Moses of old among the bulrushes, who afterwards not only smote the rock and made it bring forth water, and led the childred of Israel successfully through the wilderness and across the Red Sea, but also inscribed the immutable laws of God and man upon tablets of stone.

Family Intercourse.

This is a sore subject to touch. One feels like treading all at once on a hundred corns Nearly every family has its sore spot, its dark corner, its private closet closely locked up, and the interior hidden from the light of day. It seems strange to say that most family difficulties arise from the ignorance of the different members of each | cate. other, and yet it is sadly true. Many families live together for years, and separate knowing less of each other's secret feelings, motives and the springs which guide action, than of others who have lived together outside the family circle. Small jealousies, petty selfishness, creep cle. Small jealousies, petty selfishness, creep in and produce estrangement, which frequently mars the happiness of a lifetime.

There is little appreciation of the divine street. beauty and loving, graceful possibilities of the family relation. It is so common a fact that we lose sight of its wisdom, just as we forget to be thankful that the sun shines, or that the dew and rain fall. The sweet name of mother, brother, sister, falls upon the ear without meaning, while we are constantly associated, and in the States, 167, Dearborn street, Chicago, Illinois. habitual enjoyment of their kind offices; it is only long after, when, perhaps, some bright eyes WOWE." have dimmed, and the merry laughter of others hushed, and the weary, tired heart seeks its rest among strangers, that the magic of household names, and the deep, tender meaning of the household relationship is really felt.

Habitual politeness is a valuable element of family intercourse. A coarse, rude speech is less excusable, addressed to a father, mother, Orrice-No. 3 Talbott & New's Block, Indianapolis, Ind. brother, or sister, than if used to a stanger or a simple acquaintance; and yet how common it is Of course, the fault of this lies with the parents. Precept is of little use without example. Some parents think it beneath their dignity to prefix a request with-"It you please;" or, "Have the kindness," and then wonder why their children cannot be "mannerly," like other people. We have known the sons of a poor widow, who, on no account, would have permitted themselves to Davi sit down to the table with their mother, without first arranging their toilet in the best manner public on terms that the Company feel confident will their circumstances would permit, and never suffered her, no matter what the temptation, to at tend church alone. This consideration extended to the minutest acts of their daily life, and was a most charming thing to see. The mother, it is hardly necessary to say, was a lady by birth and education, and had carefully practiced toward her children that respect for their feelings. and thoughtfulness for their comfort, which she | a. s. wyers afterwards received from them.

Love and Suicide-" Truth Stranger than Fiction.

From the St. Louis Republican, July 4. We mentioned some weeks ago the circumstances of the suicide of a young woman, who crossed over by one of the ferry-boats and drewned berself within tull view of the crowd of passengers who were returning by the same boat. It was also mentioned that the unfortunate young woman was supposed to have been disappointed in love by a man named Antoine Funkhouser. A strange sequel to that sad event occurred vesterday morning in the suicide of her lover. It is said the two were engaged to be married, but that some difference grew up between them as to our stock. We will sell as low, if not lower, than the when the marriage should take place, the girl insisting on its early consummation, and Funk | --houser desiring to postpone it for some time. Females. The beauty and extreme delicacy of the female organization, to say nothing of its physiological characteris-tics, are sufficient indications that it is subject to forms of disease and modifications peculiar to itself. The physician of the present day does not encounter any more forms of uterine diseases than did the physician of fifty years ago; but owing to the present social condition of woman, her diseases are increased to frequency, and to the truth of this assertion the melancholy deaths by consumption bear amole witness.

body of the Uterus. If you are afflicted with organic weakness, or any assemblage of morbid phenomena of this character, you have no time to spare, but at once apply for med cal aid. If too late to arrest the disease, it is at least possible to palliate the symptoms, and thus smoothe the pathway to an untimely grave.

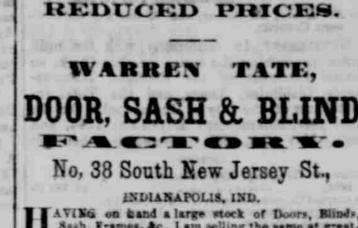

In a majority of instances these diseases have made considerable progress before the patient becomes alarmed. In some cases an emaciation is the first indication that attracts the attention of the patient's friends. And here, reader, let me call your earnest attention to the fearful significance of the word "wasting." It not only constitutes the leading feature, but the earliest and most ominous symptor s of Consumption, examples of which are invariably met with in young ladies who are gifted with high intellectual endowments, refined accomplishments, and eyes flashing with unnatural brilhancy-not regarding these indications as being those of incipient disease, but those of personal charms.

As the disease becomes chronic, the discharges are increased in quantity Ranks among the first class Companies, and is and changed in quality; they are now thick and heavy, and are hawked or coughed off. The secretions are offensive, causing a bad breath; the voice is thick and naustly said to be the most successful of any yet sal; the eyes are weak; the sense of the smell is lessened organized. Its reputation has now become so or destroyed; deafness frequently takes place. Another common and important symptom of Catarrh is, that the thoroughly established, that no more need be person is obliged to clear his throat in the morning of a thick or slimy mucus, which has fallen down from the head during the night. When this takes place the person may be sure that his disease is on its way to the said on that point.
